

Herbert Protocol – Missing Person Form

The Herbert Protocol is an information gathering tool to assist the police to find a person, living with dementia who has been reported missing, as quickly as possible.

There may be important pieces of information that you are able to provide to the Police in the event that a relative or person you are caring for has gone missing. Try and have several copies of recent, close up photographs of the person, this will help the Police when they are searching for them.

The checklists below are indicative – do not worry if you don't have, or cannot get, all of the information it asks for, some of it won't apply to everyone.

It is a good idea to fill in this form after a diagnosis so you are prepared.

Please fill in these sections and keep the form in a safe place where it can be easily located if the person it refers to goes missing. You may want to make several copies which can be kept safe by neighbours or relatives. If you are concerned about the whereabouts of your friend / relative, then you must contact the police on 999. Please tell the call handler you have a Herbert Protocol Form.

This form is designed to be completed by a family member / care giver / friend or neighbour.

Information Regarding the Herbert Protocol Missing Person Form

The Herbert Protocol form should be completed by the individual(s) who knows the person named on the form best, who has the consent of the person concerned or power of attorney to do so.

The Herbert Protocol has been designed to allow you to complete the form in your own time or with the support of care professionals. A recent photo should also be kept with the form.

Why should I consider providing this information?

The information provided will assist Police enquiries in the event that the person concerned goes missing, so that they can be traced safe and well, as quickly as possible.

It is not a medical document, but will provide relevant information about the person at the time that the document is completed. We understand how stressful it can be answering questions from the Police when a relative or someone you care for has been reported missing so it covers some of the questions an officer would be required to ask if a person with dementia was reported missing.

Often people with dementia who go missing are found heading towards places which have a particular significance to them and it is important that any such places are highlighted on the form.

Don't worry if you can't complete the whole form. The more information you can provide, the better.

What will happen with this information?

You should be aware that information from this form will be recorded and assessed by officers on police systems in relation to enquiries carried out to trace the missing person. The form will only be used for a missing person enquiry and can be handed back to you or destroyed, whichever you prefer. Any photographs will be returned.

However, it is also important to highlight that sometimes, we must by law, share information with statutory agencies and we will share information in relation to a missing person incident with those agencies who have support, welfare or health responsibilities such as:

- Local Authority Health and Social Care, which includes Social Work Services;
- NHS Scotland; and
- Scottish Fire and Rescue Service (SFRS).

How does this comply with data protection law?

Police Scotland do not control the data on this form. When it becomes a Police incident (i.e. the person is reported missing), we will record this on to the relevant police systems. The information you provide will be processed on the basis of our public task and of substantial public interest in safeguarding, in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR) and the Data Protection Act 2018.

More information on how we handle personal data for these purposes is given in our Protection and Wellbeing Privacy Notice, available on our website <https://www.scotland.police.uk/access-to-information/data-protection/privacy-notices/>
